People often say, "Time flies." But how fast does time fly? We need something to help measure time, just as we measure a pound of oranges or a glass of milk. There is still one problem—we can't see time. So how can we measure it?

About three thousand years ago, people used the sundial to tell time. It was round and had a stick in the center. When the sun shone, the stick would show the time. However, it was useless at night or on rainy days. Then we had the sandglass. It first appeared in the third century, and today people still use it. It takes some time for the sand to pass through a hole. However, it is not convenient because you must remember to turn the sandglass over. In 1088, Chinese people built the first clock. From then on, people can't live without it. Think about life without clocks. How would we go to school or catch the train on time? People later invented watches, and they are easier and lighter to carry. Because of clocks and watches, the world runs smoothly.

We always think that we can see cherry blossoms in spring and we have snow in winter. But do you know in 2007 it snowed in late summer in the USA and cherry blossoms started to bloom in winter? These events are all because of global warming.

Global warming makes sea levels rise, and some animals move to new homes. It's already too late to stop global warming completely. Although global warming is a very difficult problem to fix, many people have already started working on the problem.

There are some simple things that you can do to help stop global warming:

1. Wait until you have a lot of clothes to wash before using the washing machine.
2. Turn off the lights when you leave a room.
3. Turn off your computer or the TV when you're not using it.
4. Dress warmly inside your house when it's cold instead of turning on the heater.
5. Dress lightly on a hot day instead of turning on the air conditioner.
6. Bike or walk to near places instead of asking for a ride in a car.

Froggie was a frog who never remembered where he had been. His biggest dream was to find the best pond to swim freely without worrying about water snakes. One day, Froggie hopped to a kitchen and jumped into a pot full of hot water. Froggie felt the burning heat and hurried out of the water as fast as his legs could carry him. "I almost died there!" Froggie thought.

A few days later, Froggie went back to the same kitchen, totally forgetting he had been there. He again hopped into the same pot. This time, the water inside was cool. He looked around and thought, "There's no water snake trying to eat me and I can have this place all to myself!" At that moment, Froggie knew it was his dream pond. What he didn't know was that the water was warming up over a low heat.

After thirty minutes of swimming, Froggie felt the water was warmer but he thought of this as a nice surprise. "This sure is the best place for swimming. I get to have a hot bath, too." During his comfortable bath, the water kept getting warmer and warmer. Froggie was so comfortable that he fell asleep. And he never woke up.
