四、閱讀測驗(18% , 每題 2 分)

Good afternoon, everyone. Today, we're going to talk about what people here and around the world do for luck. Most of you already know what happens before the Chinese New Year. Taiwanese people tidy up their homes because they believe it will keep any bad luck from the previous year away. It also gives them a fresh and lucky start to the new year. In the West, it is believed to be bad luck to wish actors "good luck" before they go on stage to perform. Instead, they tell them, "Break a leg." Also, many people carry lucky charms, like a rabbit's foot, a four-leaf clover, and a horseshoe, with them for luck. Does anyone know what people in Japan do? Well, shop owners put lucky cat figures near their front doors. One of the cat's feet moves slowly to bring the owners good luck. How fun is that?

stage 舞臺 perform 表演 charm 護身符 clover 苜蓿 horseshoe 馬蹄鐵 figure 塑像

- () 31. Which is the "previous" year of 2020?

- () 32. To wish an actor in the West good luck, what should you say?
(A) Break an arm. (B) Break a leg. (C) Good luck. (D) Best wishes.
- () 33. For a Japanese shopkeeper, which is the symbol of good luck?
(A) A moving rabbit's foot. (B) A shoe for a horse.
(C) A lucky cat figure with a moving foot. (D) A four-leaf clover.

A kangaroo is similar to a koala in several ways. Here are some interesting things for you to know . First, they both live in Australia. You can see a lot of them there. They are both adapted to the hot weather there. Second, both of their names came from the Australia aboriginal language. The word "kangaroo" means "What did you say?" in the native language. The word "koala" has the meaning of "no drink." Third, both of their babies are very small when they are born. They can be about only 2 cm long. Fourth, both of their babies live in their mother's pouch for several months. They sleep, drink milk, and grow in it. Both the kangaroo mother and the koala mother take good care of their little babies. Last, both of them drink little water. A kangaroo almost never needs to drink water.

Both kangaroos and koalas are interesting animals, aren't they?

Stanley Matthews,
standing on the home base,
Looks at the ball in the pitcher's left hand,
Wondering how fast the baseball will move this time
And what his last chance will turn out to be.

In Matthews' ten years' experience
As a baseball player,
He knows he is dealing with a thorny issue.
The pitcher is smart, strong, and careful.
The ball that he throws is like lightning.
Worried,
Stanley Matthews knows
He has little chance of hitting a home run,
Which his team needs to win the game.

The pitcher nods at the catcher,
And then raises his left hand.
The ball comes Matthews' way at more than 170 km an hour.
Matthews has less than one second to decide
How he will swing his bat.

Matthews swings his bat hard.
The ball flies high away,
And the last chance of winning the game does, too.

tense 令人緊張的 pitcher 投手 lightning 閃電 catcher 捕手

- () 37. What does a thorny issue mean?
(A) A difficult problem. (B) A good chance of winning. (C) A common game. (D) An exciting moment.
- () 38. What is NOT mentioned (提及) in the reading?
(A) How Stanley Matthews feels before he hits the ball. (B) How fast the ball flies.
(C) How long Stanley Matthews has played baseball. (D) Which team Stanley Matthews is on.
- () 39. What can we learn from the reading?
(A) Stanley Matthews has thought he will be able to hit a home run.
(B) Stanley Matthews lets his team down at last.
(C) Stanley Matthews wins the big game for his team.
(D) Stanley Matthews swings but misses the ball.
