Stretching Helps Your Body

"Eight, nine, ten... phew!" Exercise is hard work! But kids in Taiwan need more exercise. It's very important for good health. Do you know two important things to do when you exercise? They are warming up and stretching! A researcher says to warm up first. You can walk, jog, or ride a bike. Warm up for five to ten minutes. Then you are ready to move more! Stretching helps your body move more easily. Some people say to stretch before exercising. Others say to do it after. The researcher says both can be good! But you need to know how to stretch. And don't stretch until you hurt! If you hurt, stop! Here's one way to stretch. You stand up. Keep your legs straight. Then reach for your toes. Don't move... for one minute! The researcher says to stretch one minute for each group of muscles. That's not too long. You won't get tired. And your body gets a good stretch! You'll feel good! Warming up, stretching, and exercising can help you be healthy! Try a good stretch now!
